The Politician.

Washington, Oct. 1.—President McKinley received the representative of Aguinaldo, the chief of the Philippine insurgents, as a private individual, and heard what he had to say about the wishes of the insurgents as to the future government of the Philippines, but he made no promises. Gen. Greene brought full official reports from Admiral Dewey and Gen. Merritt on present conditions in Philippines, and the latter is now on his way to Paris, for the purpose of advising the American Peace Commissioners. Although there is no probability that President McKinley has any idea of turning the control of the Philippines over to Aguinaldo, it may be put down as certain that all persons having legitimate right in the Philippines will be fully protected in those rights, just as the rights of our own citizens are protected.

President McKinley has been personally assisting the Commission engaged in investigating the conduct of the war in making arrangements that will enable them to get all the information desired. Complaints are invited from the lowest to the highest; all that is asked is that the matters complained of shall be those which came under the personal knowledge of the complainant. Representatives of the press associations are to be present when testimony is taken by the commission.

Maj. Gen. Francis V. Greene arrived at Washington this week from Manila. While Gen. Greene will not talk about matters that are covered in his official report, now in the hands of the President, he tells many interesting things about Manila and our troops there. He says our men are comfortably quartered, all under roof, and that their general health is good. When asked how the American soldiers got along with the natives, Gen. Greene replied, "Very well, indeed. The men have liberty for a mile from their barracks, and they mingle with the natives in friendly fashion. They seem to accommodate themselves to circumstances with the least possible annoyance. The natives on their part are well disposed, and the insurgents, so far as I found them, were tractable and anxious to please us. We lived beside them for some time and had no trouble with them. They are a peaceably disposed people."

Senator Chandler, who is now in Washington, said: "The only reason why Secretary Alger was selected for attack instead of the bureau chiefs of the War Department, who are the responsible parties, is because the Democrats think party capital may be made by attacking him while it cannot be made by attacking them. But the attack is none the less without reason. The investigation which the President has wisely ordered, by able and impartial men—no wiser or more fearless men exist than Gen. Granville M. Dodge—will show what mistakes have been made; and it will appear that few have been made by the Secretary, and all by army officers, who are not politicians, and for whom the politicians are not responsible. So the attempt to make party capital by exhibiting to the world national sores, if there are any, will react upon its authors, and the Democrats for their unpatriotic cry will lose ten votes in 1900 where they gain one in 1896. They started to be this time a patriotic war party, and not, as before, a copperhead party. They are in danger of ending in the garb of bandaged malcontents, belittling the war and treating it only as an excuse for petty partisan assaults which should had no place in connection with our magnificent battles for the expulsion of cruel Spain from the American continent, and from the Philippines, as well."

The belief that the Republicans of New York put up a strong candidate when Col. Theodore Roosevelt was nominated for Governor is not confined to Republicans. Gen. Ben LeVre, who was a Democratic Congressman from Ohio but who is now a voter in New York, said to another Democrat, who was arguing that Roosevelt was a weak candidate: "The fact Roosevelt went to the front and risked his life for his country will count more with the masses than anything that can be brought against him. Col. Roosevelt in my judgment, is a most formidable candidate. He will be a hard man to beat and there is no use disguising that fact." Gen. LeVre is also one of the Democrats who recognizes that no available political capital can be had by attacking the management of the war. In his own words "It does not strike me as being a promising field for political investment."

In every direction the U. S. is reaching out for markets for every line of its products. Consul General Govey, at Yokohama, Japan, in a communication to the Department of State, says that Japan imported 182,484 pounds of butter during 1897, of which the U. S. furnished 73,000 pounds, the rest being divided by Austria, Denmark, Germany, Holland, Italy and Switzerland. California sent nearly all of the American butter. The Consul General adds: "I have no doubt that U. S. creamery butter, properly prepared for table use and put in attractive packages in such a manner as to preserve its sweetness and keep it fresh, would speedily control the market." He says the average price received for butter is 35 cents a pound in gold.

CINCINNATI

Chamber of Commerce Committee to Report on Ohio River Improvement.

The delegates to the Ohio Valley Improvement Association from the Chamber of Commerce have prepared a report, which will be presented to the Board of Directors at its meeting next Tuesday. The report will go fully into the character and results of the meeting and contain a summary of what has been accomplished by the association during its existence. In view of the great good done and the amount of work yet to be undertaken, the committee will recommend that the Chamber contribute this year $500 to the treasury of the association. The appropriation last year was $300. Among the items of work yet to be done are:

A survey of the Ohio river from Marietta to Cairo, which must be obtained before appropriations can be intelligently made for permanently improving said river.

The location of points at which movable dams will be necessary to yield a continuous stage of not less than six feet of water in the channel at any season of the year.

The inauguration of work on these dams under the continuous contract system.

To urge completion at the earliest possible period of such dams as will afford the greatest immediate benefit to important business centers, Cincinnati being a point at which such work should be commenced and vigorously pushed to completion at the earliest possible period.

Appointed a Clerk.

Zanesville, O., Oct. 2.—Miss Alice Farquhar, daughter of the late Major Farquhar, has been appointed a clerk in the library at Washington. The appointment was made through the intercession of Congressman Van Voorhis, to whom Major Farquhar made a dying request that the government provide for his daughter. Major Farquhar had served through both the Civil and Spanish wars and died of fever contracted at Santiago, and when the funeral was held President McKinley sent a wreath of flowers and was delighted to comply with the dying request of the veteran.

THE SCHOOL YOUTH

Are Asked By Gov. Bushnell to Contribute to the La Fayette Monument Fund.

Executive Department,
 Office of the Governor.

To the School Youth of Ohio:

It is proposed that during the great Exposition to be held in the City of Paris, France, in the year 1900, the participation of the people of the United States of America shall be graced by the unveiling of a monument to Marquis de La Fayette, one whose memory is dearly loved by all Americans and whose grave should ever be considered a shrine of patriotism. Attention has been called to the fact that the dust of General La Fayette reposes in the almost forgotten cemetery of Petit Picpus in Paris and that only a plain stone marks the resting place of this firm, true and strong friend of our country during the struggle for independence and in the trying years succeeding. The idea of erecting a monument as a tribute of this great nation, over the grave of La Fayette has been sanctioned and endorsed by Congressional action and by prominent men in public and private life, and the endeavor has now substantial foundation. It is to be conducted under the auspices of the Committee appointed by the Commissioner of the United States to the Paris Exposition, and its supporters and agents include members of the National Government, the Chief Executives, and those most closely connected with education in the various States of the Union. The plan is to obtain the funds to defray the cost of the monument from the school youth of the United States, it being believed that by small voluntary contributions an aggregate of ample amount can be secured, and that the children of the land should be given this opportunity of paying a twentieth century mark of honor to one who did so much for their common country in its youthful days. It is the intention to have the unveiling of the monument take place on July 4th, 1900.

I am sure that the school youth of Ohio will desire to be represented and to do their part in this undertaking, and, therefore, as the Governor of the State, I take this means of acquainting all with the aim and the details of the movement, which I am sure will be a grand success in every way. It has been decided that

WEDNESDAY, OCT. 19th, 1893, that date being the anniversary of the fall of Yorktown, an event in which La Fayette's labors for the American cause showed the successful culmination, shall be recognized as the day for receiving contributions from the students in the universities and colleges, and from the scholars in the city and township schools.

Now, therefore, I, Asa A. Bushnell, Governor of the State of Ohio, being desirous of securing as complete cooperation as possible on the part of the school youth of the State, and being in sympathy with the purpose, do by this address recommend that on Wednesday, October 19th, 1893, there shall be hearty support given by voluntary contributions of small amount from each and every one of the young people who can afford to give; and further, I would recommend that the Hon. Lewis D. Bonebrake, State Commissioner of Common Schools, take the matter in charge with a view to perfecting whatever organization may be necessary and receiving and finally to be remitted to the Hon. Charles G. Dawse, Comptroller of the Currency, and Treasurer of the Monument Committee, at Chicago. I believe that the million of school youth in Ohio will accord to the project full sympathy and aid, and thus establish for our grand State another record which will be to the honor of the generation which in the near future is to manage her affairs and guide her destinies. ASA S. BUSHNELL.

MAKE IT PUBLIC.

Publicity Counts—That's What the People Want—Marietta Express—on the Subject.

Make it public.
 Tell the people about it.
 Gratitude promotes publicity.
 Grateful citizens talk.
 They tell their neighbors—tell their friends.

The news is too good to keep.
 Everybody should know about the little conqueror.

"Bad backs" are numerous.
 So few understand the cause.
 Many Marietta people are learning.
 And better still they're being cured.
 Lane backs are lame no more.
 Weak ones regain their strength.
 This is the everyday labor in Marietta Of Doan's Kidney Pills.

Our citizens are making it public.
 Mr. E. M. Johnson, of 326 Third st., retired traveling salesman, says: "I had attacks of kidney complaint for 10 or 12 years. While suffering from the last I was induced to take Doan's Kidney Pills and got a box at W. H. Styer's drug store on Front street. I can cheerfully recommend them and any statement to that effect cannot be made too strong. After suffering for years as I did with pains across the loins; my back at times so lame I could not get up or down; greatly troubled with an annoying and distressing urinary weakness that arose from irritated kidneys, I repeat, I cannot express my estimation about the remedy that gave me relief. I can be found at home or about town at any time to substantiate my opinion of Doan's Kidney Pills."
